Here we watch as the sun goes down over the Western horizon day after day, and again as it rises in the East. Here we chase adventure like we were made for it, hiking and climbing and seeing all creation, near and far. Here we get late-night snacks from the gas station, and ice cream across the street. Here we shout songs and share tears and devote time to another like no one else before. Here we open doors and share umbrellas and laugh with strangers. These and many more are routine to us. Cedarville has given us a home and a family, and here we have made new traditions that will be remembered for years to come. It is these traditions that make our culture, these routines that we share with all those who have come before us and with those that follow - we build an ever-growing, ever-learning family of timeless culture, sharing our loves and passions and knowledge and growing together forever, seeking the light of Jesus Christ and sharing that light with those around us, near and far.

Even so, it is not us or our words or our works that will last, but the light and the works and the Word of our Father in Heaven, as it is written,

“The grass withers, the flower fades,
but the word of our God will stand forever.”

Dedication

Greg Couser, Senior Professor of Bible and Greek, is a blessing and a providence to the Cedarville community; one cannot cross paths with this esteemed and loved professor without being encouraged, growing in wisdom, and witnessing the true joy of the Lord in a committed follower of Jesus Christ. Dr. Couser is a loving husband of over thirty years to Ronna Couser, father to four daughters, Jaklyn, Francesca, Victoria, and Dominique, grandfather of two, and confers his loving and caring person also to his teaching at Cedarville University. He has a gentle and fatherly temperament, and his love is for spending time with others in service and growth. His dedication to wisdom and a knowledge of God are evidenced in his love for reading, his commitment to learning, and his desire to engage and encourage others toward a mature relationship with God. To this end, Dr. Couser ministers in the community by teaching and serving as an elder at Emmanuel Baptist Church, by mentoring students and couples on campus, and by dedicating time to various organizations on campus. Cedarville University would be at a great loss without the ministry of Dr. Greg Couser.

Getting Started

The Cedarville campus is bustling and crowded with people and the energy of something new. Our family comes together here and now to grow and learn and move forward in life and unity. It is during Getting Started weekend that life-long friends are found, community is sown, and a home is made. No matter how much time is spent on Cedarville's campus, students always remember what happened their first few days here: meeting Dr. White, getting their key, bonding with their roommate, meeting the faculty they will work with for the next several years, and preparing themselves for the life to come. They do not know how important these moments are to the rest of their lives.

-Melanie Poindexter

Fall Bible Conference

At Cedarville, we begin strong. We want to make the foundation of the year a focus on the gospel and on our dedication to, recognition of, and dependence on God's teaching and guidance through His Word on a daily basis.

Clayton King gave an encouraging and challenging lesson to stand on this year: that in our weakness, Christ is made strong. In this tremulous world full of darkness, pain, sin, and persecution, we want it to be our cry that we humble ourselves and submit to God so that Christ's power is shown great, and through our pain, our ministry grows by the grace of God.

- McKenna Wright

Homecoming

For Homecoming, alumni reconnect with the school they so love and experience with the current Cedarville community a host of activities for fellowship and celebration. Cedarville's Homecoming is filled with traditions from many years past, like the parade through town, the well-loved Cardboard Canoe Race, and the men's soccer game, all for the unity of Yellow Jackets from years past and for years to come. It is exhilarating to experience the hustle and bustle of the crowded campus as the excited masses come together to share their love for a community, a place that has played such an important part in so many lives.

Fall Play

Presented homecoming weekend by a cast of 14 to an audience of alumni, families, and students, was the Cedarville theatre department's fall production, Father of the Bride. Set in the '50s, it was a comedic tale of the chaotic process of wedding planning and its effects of the family, with the spotlight on the father, frantically juggling the demands of the wedding and struggling with the growth of his little girl. Cedarville University's theatre department cherishes the privilege to share their gifts, talents, and passions with their community and their audience, providing entertainment for others and truly connecting people with their art.

Moonlight Madness

Moonlight Madness kicks off the Yellow Jackets varsity basketball season each year. The basketball teams go all out in a night of excitement, lights, action, and noise to introduce the year's men's and women's varsity teams. The community gets hyped for the season with scrimmages, a showdown game between the students and faculty, audience contests, the Yellow Jacket Pep Band, and the beloved dunk contest to top it all off.

Campus Christmas

It's the most wonderful time of the year; in Cedarville, that is most definitely true. For the final weeks of Fall Semester, the campus and student center are decked out for the most festive celebration of Christmas in the area. It is when friends and family come together to celebrate the birth of the Savior, Jesus Christ, and there's no other time during the year at Cedarville when people feel closer or more loved. Campus comes together for old traditions, Christmas stories, classic movies, coffee and cocoa in front of the fire, and so much more.

Mission Conference

The annual Mission Conference brings the Cedarville community together as a reminder of the great, deep need for the relief, peace, and love of God in the world. Missionaries and organizations came to speak to students about their work and the opportunities they have to bring the gospel and God's love to the nations. David Platt, president of the International Mission Board, pleaded the great urgency for Christians to share the gospel with the desperate world that needs it and reminded those listening that there are some in the world who have never heard about the great love and care the Lord has for them. Harry Gebert, Rob Turner, and Scott Dunford also offered wisdom and exhortation on the character of mission-minded Christians and the call to God's mission for all Christians.

Cyrano de Bergerac

Cedarville's Theatre Department performed Cyrano de Bergerac, a romantic story, during the week of Valentine's Day. Taking Place in the 17th Century, Cyrano, a big-hearted and big-nosed man attempts to win over his distant cousin and love, Roxanne. Cyrano, played by David Widder-Varhegyi portrays the struggle between Cyrano's big heart and his self-doubt due to his large nose. His large nose is his biggest obstacle and gets in the way of his search for love. Throughout the play, Cyrano's other desirable traits are shown, like his dueling and musician-like skills, but he still doubts his appearance, which makes him believe that he is unlovable by any woman.

To sanctify to what far ends He will,
But which it only needs that we fulfill."

- Robert Frost, "A Prayer In Spring"

Wit

The last play of the school year was performed by the theatre department from March 31-April 10. The theatre department performed their second play of the spring on Wit. The story of Wit follows the life of a brilliant university professor who is diagnosed with terminal cancer. The play follows her life, through treatments which bring understanding of her work, as well as her life. Wit was such a captivating play because it touches on important aspects of life that affect everyone: pain, suffering, and death. It challenged the audience as well as the actors on the stage as to what things in life are so valuable that they are worth holding on to.

Junior Senior

Junior Senior is one of the seniors' "last hoorahs" before graduation. Hosted by the Junior class, this event allows both juniors and seniors to enjoy a night of dancing and fun away from campus and honors the seniors before they leave. This year students traveled to Cincinatti, to have a night under the stars going along with the theme, Stellar. Students flooded the dance floor, as well as participated in other activities, like eating out beforehand, taking photos in the photo-booth, or just hanging out with a big group of friends.

Seniors were able to enjoy one more event with their class before the realness of graduation set in.

They were able to let loose on the dance floor and indulge in countless activities, while creating priceless memories in the meantime.

SoFresh

SoFresh is an event made just for sophomore and freshman students during Junior-Senior weekend. As the other students travelled to a dance, these students participated in activities held on campus. This year's theme was CarniVILLE, which was set up all over the Biblical and Theological Studies building. Members of both class councils came together to provide these students with a great weekend. There were carnival games set up, food, and other activities for students to participate in. This was a totally free event for students not able to attend Junior-Senior.

Elliv is a tradition which finishes the year with the biggest concert in Cedarville all year. The weekend before graduation, the student body put on an impressive show of musical talent, celebrating another year finished and those elements that brought the community together over the year. This year, such campus stars as Ansen Lancaster, Drew Brandt, Christian Frey, Hayden Bradley, Kenton Durham, and more blew away the audience with their performances. We'll see what they do next year to top this one.

Commencement

If you asked a senior during the spring semester how many days there were until graduation, you'll always get the answer, sometimes down to the minute. This year's commencement did not disappoint those who were excited. It was a fitting tribute to the individuals in the class and the work that they had done. This year's speaker was Dr. Thomas White. His challenging charge to the graduates encouraged them to be good at what they do, For the Glory of God.

It was perhaps the hymn that was sung that was the most fitting tribute to this class. "Be Still My Soul" was the hymn, and its words reminded the graduates of God's faithfulness in their lives over the past four years.

ALT Night

It is easy to get a little stir-crazy in these corn fields – and sometimes hard to find entertainment to alleviate that. For the weekends of freedom from papers, exams, and projects, the Student Center Activities Board provided an alternative to spending that last check from parents or just taking a three-hour nap. Alt. nights gave students an opportunity to get their heads out of their textbooks and spend time with their friends without breaking the bank, providing movies and food and fun activities without students having to leave campus.

-Jonathan Coraccio

Org Wars

Those outside orgs do not understand. The noise, the rivalry, the envy for the victory – all are components of the annual Org Wars. Students join their friends for a week of rigorous challenges, prepared to test their skills and dedication, with the hopes of bringing home the victory for their org and the attention of the entire student body. Org Wars builds student community like no other event on campus.

Chapel

For many students, chapel holds a significant place in the memories of their time at Cedarville. Each weekday at 10am, students, faculty, and staff headed over to the DMC for a time of worship, reflection, and teaching.

Because of Cedarville's commitment to enriching students both intellectually and spiritually, speakers from around the world came to share parts of their lives and pieces of their wisdom. Throughout the year, our very own Dr. White presented his thought-provoking series, "We Believe." Overall, chapel was the constant, unwavering source of fellowship and knowledge that brought students closer to each other and to their Savior throughout their years at Cedarville.

SGA

Nearly every Friday, students can look forward to what promises to be an interesting chapel, led by the Student Government Association. This year's SGA team consisted of a host of valued students that made each chapel happen, including President Matt Pounds, Vice President Kristen Hayes, and SGA Chaplain Steve Clark. Because of the hard work, creativity, and dedication from each person within SGA, students were able to both laugh with and learn from all of the various stories and messages shared. SGA—the group that provided fun and fellowship to Cedarville University's student body—definitely made this year one to remember.

Concerts

One of Cedarville University's core values is Excellence in Effort. That standard is no different when it comes to the performing arts, especially musically. Cedarville's music program allows students who study in all majors to be a part of music groups, as well as those who are studying their passion. The culmination of these efforts was captured throughout the year in their concerts. One of the biggest concerts of the year was the annual POPS concert. The POPS Concert was a tribute to Great Britain and the influence they have had on music. The concert featured nearly all of the choirs and bands at the university. In an effort to pay full tribute to Great Britain, they even finished with the National Anthem of Britain. Concerts are just another way students at Cedarville can express themselves.

Global Outreach

Over the course of their time at Cedarville, students are given many opportunities to serve in many ministries. Global Outreach sent hundreds of students to do ministry all year long. Whether it was a weekly ministry or a month-long missions trip, students got to share their faith and serve in a variety of ways. This year, Global Outreach sent out over 20 teams to different parts of the globe. Not only were they sending out missions teams, there was a large group of students that went to a ministry every week. Teams ministered in jails, elderly homes, and after-school programs for at-risk kids. Global Outreach was striving to show the love of Christ all over the world.

Women's Tennis

"Our time in Florida over spring break made us grow as a team. We had a night of sharing testimonies with each other, and it made us grow to understand each other's differences. I really loved that we came away from that trip so much closer and having more of a gospel outlook on it because of all the things Christ had done in our lives as individuals."

Audra Kearney

01 Austin Ballentine hurls the discus in his first year as a Yellow Jacket.

"Cedarville has bettered me as an athlete by teaching me what a strong work ethic looks like. Being dedicated to work on your skills and putting time into your sport has definitely made me a better athlete. It has also shown me that no matter how well we do, we owe all the glory to Christ. We have the ability to do what we do because of him, and one of our mottos as a team is AO1, Audience of One."

Morgan Arbogast

Academic Teams

As a Christ-centered learning community, Cedarville is committed to cultivating the mind and utilizing the intellect to serve and glorify God. One area where students could practice this outside the classroom was through academic teams. Groups such as Forensics, Model UN, Debate, and Supermileage travelled across the country as representatives of Cedarville and of Christ, using their talents to create, present, and perform in various regional and national competitions.

Led by experienced professors and advisors, these student “athletes of the mind” proved they could think deeply, communicate effectively, develop academically and professionally, engage for Christ, and glorify God.

Yearbook Staff

The yearbook staff began as strangers who were all new to the yearbook. Over the year, they learned together what it took to design and create a yearbook. Through this shared learning, they came to be good friends, who looked forward to seeing each other at meetings, cared about each other's lives, had inside jokes, and helped each other with their work. Walks back to school from the office, getting coffee together, and wondering who was going to be the late one to any given meeting are some of their best memories together.

Colophon

Publisher

The 2016 Miracle was published by Jostens, Inc. It was printed at their plant located in State College, PA. The Jostens representative was Donald Boyd, and the plant coordinator was Crystal Gault.

Cover

Color

The 2016 Miracle was printed with four color process ink.

Design

The 2016 Miracle was designed by Peyton Green.

Theme

The 2016 Miracle theme was a combined brainstorm of the editorial staff.

Production

The 2016 Miracle was produced on both HP and Apple Computers. Layouts were designed using Monarch by Jostens. Programs inside Monarch include Adobe InDesign and Adobe Photoshop.

Typography

The main font used in the book was Garamond Classic. The font was used in regular, bold, and italic styles. Size 10 was used for the captions, while size 12 was used for stories.

Photos were taken primarily by Justin Eisner with the help of his photography assistants, Cole Carpenter, and Hannah Ward. Several photos were taken by Scott Huck, photographer for Cedarville University. Jim McAdams provided senior, underclass, and faculty/staff portraits.

As my time at Cedarville draws to a close, many transitions are occurring in my life. I'm getting married, I have a new job, and I'm moving to a new town. As all of the aspects of my life are changing, a constant thought that I have is, "What is it that I love about where I am now, and how can I manage to get that in my new circumstance?" For example, I love my job that I have had for 2 years...but why? At the end of the day, it's not making coffee that I love about my job as a barista. It's not the money that makes me love it. There is one aspect that remains...and that is what I'm learning about.

People. That is the one aspect. People change everything. It's not all about where you live, how much you make, or the status you've achieved. It's about the people that are around you. Even when I've been faced with difficult, bad situations, it was the people that were around me that improved my circumstances.

So as I move from Cedarville, get married, and start a new job, I want to think more about the people I choose to be around more than the places I surround myself with. So I encourage you to consider who it is in your life that makes the places you're in worth being in. Surround yourself with people who will encourage you and want to be a positive influence in your life. Don't just let them pour into you. Pour into them. Take care of people, and they'll take care of you.

If not for God, we would be caught up in our habits and patterns with no purpose. But in Him, we have life and purpose, and the power to praise Him and serve Him in the traditions that we share.

For we were born into iniquity, rejecting God and His righteousness, and our rebellion incurs guilt deserving death. But His love for His own overflowed, and in His just mercy He gave His only begotten Son to be a perfect sacrifice, taking our punishment and atoning for the sins of many. Through Him and through His death, death is defeated, and we have hope and life in abundance. We cling to this creed, and because of it, we sing,

"...to the only God, our Savior, through Jesus Christ our Lord, be glory, majesty, dominion, and authority, before all time and now and forever. Amen."

Jude 1:25

For the Word of God and the Testimony of Jesus Christ
